WHAT TO DO IF A GAS LEAK IS SUSPECTED

Natural gas is an odorless gas. However, it has been described as being a very pungent odor, similar to rotten eggs, because that odor is added for your safety.

If you even think you may smell a gas leak in your home or any location, DON'T TOUCH ANYTHING! Don't turn a light on or off. Don't dial your phone. The only thing you should do is get you and your family out of the house immediately. Then get to a safe location and call 911. Let them know you think there's a gas leak and they will take care of contacting the gas company to have it shut off. Do not let anyone enter the building. Depending on the amount of gas leaking, the tiniest spark (i.e. turning a light off) could make the entire building/home explode like a bomb. The chances of this happening increase in the winter, when homes are using gas furnaces.

Make sure you have maintenance performed on your gas furnace every year. Just like having maintenance done on your car, this will not only extend the life of your furnace, but there will be a safety check as well. For further information, contact your local professional, Beeson Mechanical Service at 317-535-9338.

WARM, WARM, WARM!

Setting records and enjoying "spring" has been the weather themes recently. Although there's been everything from love to hate for it on social media, there's one constant.....the service calls for heating have been rolling in. Here are some tips to keep in mind when the weather seems drastically unstable and ever-changing:

1. Turning your indoor (or even outdoor) unit on and off consistently is known to break them. Just think of plugging and unplugging your toaster while trying to toast a piece of bread. It just won't last long.
2. You can ignore (sometimes costly) nuisance calls by shutting your power off and then back on after a few minutes with the switch on your furnace (to reset it); checking your filter to make sure it's not too dirty (you need to easily be able to see light through it), and making sure the batteries in your thermostat are good.
3. Remember it doesn't save you in utilities to set your thermostat back more than 4 degrees when you're gone (if it's programmable) and it won't help prolong your system either.

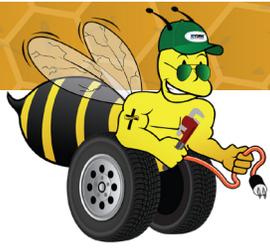

Just keep in mind that your HVAC is likely the most expensive appliance in your house. Take care of it better than you would your dryer, stove, or microwave. You may not see it as often but you use it more than any of those. Call us for the routine maintenance like you would on your car (it wouldn't last as long without the oil changed or tires rotated), and your system will last much longer.
